

To person reading at Twilio

When I was young I wanted to be an inventor and an artist, my family didn't see potential in childish dreams and steered me away to do something "normal" and "secure". I wandered my young adult life unmotivated and unaccomplished, until I completed my first coding challenge. Upon completion I realized I never gave up on my aspirations and smiled a great smile. Coding has been my passion for the past 4 years, and I have never felt more excited then when I work on a project with others.

I have no doubts that my talents as a full stack developer can translate to this Front End Position take a look at my projects on my portfolio site, they use tech like React, Redux, Express, Node.js, to name a few. I also have skills that translate to twilos communication technology, while at the apprenticeship program I've made a messaging app, I made a game with websockets, and have worked with open TCP connections in my projects, it's not foreign to me, I have worked with real time data transfers. Although it was self taught I accomplished much on my own, and I know with a little guidance I can hit the ground running with the team in about a week or so.

I come from a hospitality background, my customer service skills are fine tuned. I know how to please and can fit in with virtually every culture. I'd be a good fit at twilio, and would be honored if considered for this position.

Thank you for your time
